LOCAL OFFICER, HELD UNDER $1000 BAIL FOR APPEARANCE AT COURT

Justice Of Peace E. E. Rice Sues Detective W. H. Riggle.

TRIAL AT MONONGAHELA

Aiding Prisoners To Escape And Compounding a Felony Is The Charge.

On a charge of aiding prisoners to escape and compounding a felony, Detective W. H. Riggle, of Charleroi, was held for court under $1000 bail, Wednesday evening by Alderman Elwood, of Monongahela. The private prosecutor is Justice of the Peace E. E. Rice, of Charleroi.

The suit arises from the arrest and subsequent dismissal of James H. Poise and William Richards, who were charged with having stolen rings and harness fittings belonging to the Walton and Charleroi Lumber companies. Justice Rice claims that such warrant was sworn out before him for the two men, and an information was made, but not signed by J. W. Cornell of the Walton company. The search warrant was given to Riggle who arrested the men. They were brought to Charleroi, Rice claims, and the affair settled by Detective Riggle and representatives of the lumber firm without he so much as seeing the prisoner or having notification that the alleged transaction was to take place. Riggle it is stated received $15 for his share in the transaction, Chief of Police Albright $5 and the representatives of the company a certain sum, the latter however for the damage done. This Justice claims was unlawful inasmuch as the warrant was s orn out there, and he only had jurisdiction.

Detective Riggle claims that the matter was merely a business agreement between the representatives of the companies, the men and himself. According to his statement the matter was to be dropped upon payment of all damages and costs. The $15, he said, was for the costs. He states that no information was made before Justice Rice and no unlawful transaction was made. W. H. Coles, of the Wilbur Hotel furnished Riggle's bail bond.

No charge is made against Chief Albright.

ANOTHER LOST BY CHARLEROI

Inability To Hit When Hits Meant Runs The Cause.

Although getting one more hit than Fairmont and aided by two errors by the opponents, both of which materially figured in the run getting Charleroi was unable to pull out a victory yesterday. Fairmont took the game in the fourth inning and although the score was tied by Charleroi in the sixth round they could not get the run across that would give them victory. In the seventh inning a golden opportunity was passed up when a single and double resulted in nothing. In the ninth with two in and two down one lone single would have tied the score and given another grip on the game but the best that could be produced by the batter was an easy one to short who retired the runner at first. Humphries started the heaving for Charleroi and worked until the score was tied in the sixth inning, when Osborne took the hill and finished the contest. Four hits for a total of six bases and one run was made off Arch while Humphries' delivery netted the visitors six hits for twelve sacks and three runs.

Charleroi scored first in the argument and it came in the second inning when Nally, singled and was safe at second on McCombs' error. Dailey followed with a single which sent Nally over. From that until the sixth cyphers were drawn. Dunn opened up with one to Gates who made a mess of it. Elliott then picked one off for the entire circuit which made two runs over. The next two went out in rotation. Dailey beat one out fo two sacks but died as Humphries could get nothing but three healthy swipes at the air. The first tally came to the Fairmont crew in the fourth round. After McCombs had fanned, Core hit for three cushions. Zurlage was on the job and came up with a double. To keep the wheels of progress going Snodgrass singled and sent Zurlage over the last mile stone. The run that evened up the score was made by Gates in the fifth, and he needed no assistance, as he swiped one that gave him an opportunity to touch all four stations before the pill could be returned. The score that took the life out of the game came to Fairmont in the eighth round. Haught, the first up picked out one of Osborne's benders for three cushions where he rested while McCombs died from short to first. Core was right there when needed and broke off the single that won the game for Fairmont. With one down in the ninth Osborne singled. Houser skied to right and Cosgrove made two on by walking. A hit at this time would have scored a run and the glad hand was given Dunn when he walked

THREE KILLED INSTANTLY AND TWO OTHERS FATALLY INJURED AT ELLSWORTH

Explosion Yesterday In Ellsworth Mine No. 1 Happens just A Few Moments After 500 Men Leave Mine.

ELECTRIC SPARK SAID TO HAVE CAUSED CATASTROPHE

As a result of an explosion in Ellsworth mine No. 1, of the Pittsburg Coal company, at Ellsworth yesterday afteroon three men are dead and two more, fatally injured.

The Dead.

Frank Beal, aged 28, English, leaves wife and step child.

Stephen Mazell, aged 26. Slav, leaves wife in Europe.

Stephen Frenzeh, aged 32. Slav, leaves wife and one child at Ellsworth.

The Injured.

Pete Hazop, aged 19, Italian, badly burned externally.

Peter Hazop, cousin of above, aged 19, Italian, burned internally, and badly bruised.

Five thers were slightly injured.

The explosion occurred in No. 9 west entry at about 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon, just a few moments after nearly 500 men of the day shift had left the workings, leaving about thirty men inside. Almost all these were near the mouth of the slope and able to reach the opening before the force of the explosion overtook them.

The bodies of the men who were killed were soon recovered by a rescueing party, and the injured brought to the surface. The Hazops were hastened to the Memorial Hospital, Monongahela, it being seen that their injuries would likely prove fatal. The others were taken to the hospital later on.

Although the explosion occurred at 4:30, Mine Inspector Henry Loutitt of Monongahela was no notified until an hour later. He at once got into communication with the officials but upon learning that nothing could be done at the time by him, did no go out. He has been investigating however and seems to think the explosion was caused by an electric spark.

The Ellsworth No. 1 mine is the same one in which the explosion took place about two months ago on the morning of April 23, four lives being lost then. The accident at that time was in the same part of the workings as that of yesterday.

This is the mine over which there was a great dealt of controversy three years ago, the company wanting to install electricity, and the inspectors, principal among whom was Mr. Loutitt, claming it would not be safe. The court appointed three unintereste l men to examine the mine, Jesse K. Johnson, Pat Dolan and another Pennsylvania man. The former resigned and O. A. Blackburn was appointed in his stead. It is stated that they were not practical mining men. They reported favorably on the matter of installing the electrical system, and the company acted accordingly. It is said this has been the cause of much trouble.

Of those killed yesterday, the Englishman, Beal will be buried Monday in the Monongahela cemetery. The bodies of the two Slavs will be interred on Sunday afternoon at Monongahela.

Personals.

Dr. C. S. Johnson is visiting friends in Uniontown this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Lize Lewis of Elizabeth are visitors in Charleroi.

Benjamin Crawford left today for Tarentum to spend a few days with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Reeves and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Keeves took an automobile trip to Pittsburg today.

Greatness.

There is a kind of elevation which does not depend on fortune. It is a certain air which distinguishes us and seems to destine us for great things. It is a price which we imperceptibly set on ourselves. By this quality we usurp the deference of other men, and it puts us, in general, more above them than birth, dignity or even merit itself. —La Rochefoucauld.

A Coincidence.

"I'm afraid, George," said his fiancee, "that you are going from bad to worse."

"Quite a coincidence," muttered George. "That's what Clara said when I threw her over for you."

Spurgeon's Complaint.

Mr. Spurgeon once complained that his deacons were worse than the devil.

"Resist the devil," said he, "and he will fly from you, but resist a deacon and he will fly at you."

Hope.

"There is no sweeter suffering than hope." So runs an old German proverb, melancholy text for hearts that bitter disappointment has cured and to whom all hope is but memory.

INJUNCTION SERVED TO RESTRAIN PAVING OF MONESSEN STREET

Property Holders In That Place Claim That Damage Was Done.

HOUSES ON REED AVENUE

Are Ones Over Which There Will Likely Be Some Trouble.

Dr. W. D. Hunter, of Monessen, and O. F. Piper, of California, have had a temporary injunction restraining the paving of Reed avenue, Monessen, until the city has reimbursed them for damages that they claim will result to their property on account of the grade established by the city on Reed avenue. Both men are owners of valuable property on Reed avenue near Sixth street in Monessen and they allege that a deep cut is being made in front of their places which will not only injure the appearance of same, but will diminish the value as well. Dr. Hunter claims that on several occasions he has made an effort to have the matter amicably adjusted but that the street and roads committee neglected to take action.

The curbing is set in front of all the property where it is claimed the damage has been done, but the palintiffs refuse to allow the work to progress further until there is a statement.

In speaking of the injunction proceedings W. A. Miller, a member of the street and road committee said that if the papers were served that bond would likely be put up to sustain damages and the work of paving continued. Dr. Hunter spent both yesterday and today in Greensburg in the the interest of his suit.

ONE DEAD FROM HEAT

Monessen Man Succumbs While Sitting On Porch Reading Paper.

One death indirectly due to the heat, occurred in Monessen Thursday evening at about 5:30 when Robert W. Bretney, employed as clerk by the Carnegie Steel Co. here, was stricken and died a few moments later of heart failure. The dead man was seated on the front porch of the residence of Fred L. Luce, of Schoonmake avenue reading the convention news when he fell from his chair. He was found dead at about 5:40 o'clock.

The dead man was 35 years of age and was a resident of Belle Vernon until a few months ago. He had been rooming at the Luce home for several months. He was a son-in-law of Wm. McNutt, a well known Rostraver township resident. It will be remembered that his wife died suddenly about six months ago. The remains were shipped to the home of his parents in Washington, D. C., over the P. V. and C. road from Charleroi at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

REDUCTION ORDERED ON ASSESSMENTS

Somerset, Pa., June 19.—Judge Francis J. Koser, of the Somerset county courts, today handed down a decision on an appeal from the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company in which he holds that the county commissioners, in the absence of any law authorizing the action cannot impose an increased valuation on coal lands acreage because the coal is being removed. The coal company appealed to the courts on the action of the county commissioners in assessing coal lands higher than other property because after the removal of coal its value would be decreased. In assessing real estate, coal or other property, Judge Koosr said its value and not the ownership should alone be considered. He ordered the reduction of the assessment made by the county commissioners, placing the costs in the case upon the county and ordered the county to return to the Reading company any excess taxes on the property which may have been paid.

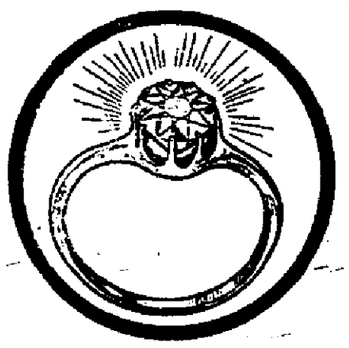
STORM PLAYS HAVOC IN WASHINGTON COUNTY

There was considerable damage done by storms in Washington county last night. Fourteen of the sixteen high stacks on the American Wire and Steel mills of Donora were blown down and considerable damage done. No one was hurt.

The property holders at Eldora suffered considerably. The Holman sign at that place was blown off and hit the window of a trolley car coming towards Charleroi. Eighty feet of fence around the yard of William Sanders was destroyed. At the same place cellar doors were lifted and set down again nearly 70 feet away.

Scarcely any damage was done in Charleroi, while the residents of Washington, the county seat, suffered much.



Who first beholds the light of day,

And wears an emerald all her life
Shall be a loved and happy wife.

There are no doubt many "loved and happy wives," who first beheld the light of day in spring's flowery month of May, who never wore an emerald. They no doubt preferred other precious gems, such as diamonds, garnets, pearls or opals.

A Hitch?

It is stated the entente that had almost been secured between the Observer and the Canonsburg Notes, partys of the first part, and the Republican party of Pennsylvania, party of the second part, by which the Canonsburg Notes was to have been appointed as Consul to Mwfp, has been badly endangered.

The Notes has raised a new point by insisting that Hon. William Flinn and Max Leslie, of Pittsburg, accompany Messrs. McNicholls and Durham, of Philadelphia, to see President Roosevelt and ask for the appointment. The Notes, it is claimed, has stated bluntly that it must have representatives of its own there, and selected Messrs. Flinn and Leslie because they, too, had undergone the steam roller process, on April 11th, there or thereabouts, and could, therefore, intelligently discuss the subject.

It is said the wires were kept red-hot last night and while there is not the slightest doubt that Messrs. Flinn and Leslie will "go along," still until the matter has reached a satisfactory ending great anxiety will prevail.

However, when it was learned late last night that President Roosevelt had stated that he would delay going on his vacation until the matter was settled there was a visible sign of joy around the Walton House in Philadelphia.

A Lucky Combination.

The selection of Congressman Sherman, of New York, as a running mate for Secretary Taft, of Ohio, recalls the success that has attended the Republican party when it selected its nominees from Ohio and New York.

Beginning with Hayes and Wheeler in 1876 the combination has been tried five times and has lost out but once, that time being when Harrison and Reid were the candidates in 1892. June 18, the date upon which Mr. Taft was nominated for the Presidency, has been one of good omen to the American people. The battle of Bunker Hill was fought on that date and Abraham Lincoln was nominated for President on that date.

So, June 18, distinctly marked two epochs in the affairs of the American people. Mighty events marked each of them that made for freedom and progress and the making and perpetuation of the best government the sun ever shone on or ever will shine on. It was an auspicious day upon which to select a candidate to carry on the Roosevelt policies, a harbinger of a great victory in November.

When Its "Me"

The victims of the steam roller at Chicago are vieing with each other in sending messages teeming with good fellowship and tenders of cordial support and hopes for success. But those doing that are men in every sense of the word, ornaments to their party and whose illustrious services for the Nation are a source of pride to all of their countrymen.

Contrast their conduct with that of the victims of the steam roller in Washington county. A torrent of violent abuse of everybody and everything. Whole communities have been stigmatized, the voters of the county denounced as bums and boodlers, who have fallen to such depths of moral and civic degradation that they are beyond hope of redemption this side of the grave. Is that not a beautiful return for the honors and power these same voters have conferred upon their defamers for so long a period?

Practice Not Theory.

The dispatches this morning contained accounts of two bad accidents, one near Monongahela, the other near Scranton. In the latter five men were blown to atoms because one of them used an iron tamping bar to tamp a dynamite cartridge. What, besides an apprenticeship under a practical miner, would have taught that man the folly of such an act? Nothing. That man had no more business in a mine than a child with a lighted torch would have in a powder house.

Practical knowledge is what the miner needs and when he has that he can safely leave the scientific part of mining to the officials.

Slow Mental Ripening.

Not infrequently those mentalities that ripen the slowest last the longest, and often the history of these great men has been persistent neglect and worldly coldness until forty or more years have passed before their greatness has been conceded by their contemporaries. Truly "the life history of a great genius is almost invariably one of a sad and somber tone, a walk apart from the beaten path." Such are the words of one who should know what the "doers of deeds" must endure. Be this as it may, it is now recognized that many of the finest achievements in business, statesmanship, literature and in all activities have been wrought by men long past sixty. Writes one, "No strong man will accept sixty as the arbitrary limit of his ambition and working ability."—W. A. Newman Dorland in Century.

The Silkworm.

Upon attaining full growth the silkworm becomes restless, stops feeding and throws out silken threads. The silk is formed in a fluid condition and issues from the body of the worm in a glutinous state, apparently in a single thread. From this silk the worm constructs its cocoon, an interval of from three to five days being required to complete its imprisonment in the envelope. In order that the silken strands may not be subjected to the danger of breakage by the moth emerging from the cocoon, the cocoons are steamed till the inclosed insects are dead. After this the silk may be wound off.—New York American.

Among the Exchanges

In speaking of the anonymous character assassin the Connellsville Courier truthfully says:

We are in recipt of an anonymous communication which says: "Mrs. —— of Trotter and Mrs.—— of Dunbar were arrested on Tuesday afternoon for being drunk and acting disorderly on the street. Please publish this."

An examination of the police records fails to show that any such persons were arrested on the day mentioned or arraigned in the mayor's court on this or any other charges.

This illustrateds the folly of publishing anonymous communications, especially those of a libelous character. The motive of this communication savors too strongly of malice. Newspapers print many things which they would rather omit from their columns, but as a rule they set nothing down in malice. The anonymous communication is usually malicious and often untruthful; it is, therefore, doubly objectionable.

It is amazing how many people want the newspapers to assume the responsibility of printing unfounded stories bubbling over with bile, bitter with personal spleen, exuding little else than petty spite.

It is evident that the editor of the Scottdale Independent is an "old timer" or else he could not have written so truthully about the boy and the circus. Hear him:

There s nothing that recalls a man's boyhood days more vividly than the circus. It is a trite saying that many fathers are mighty glad that the taking of their children gives an excuse to attend all the circuses that come to the city, but there are a lot of them who are not ashamed of the fact that they are merely boys grown up, and go to the circuses because they enjoy them. The odor of the animals and sawdust brings back the days when, knowing the circus was coming they would get up before daylight, not to see the big vans unloaded from the trains, for circuses did not travel by railway those days, but to walk out in the country, a few miles to meet the caravans, which traveled overland from town to town. To walk into town beside the elephant was the greatest fun imaginable. There was not as much to the average circus then as there is today, but there was plenty for all to see, and the boy who was not permitted to at least hang around the show grounds was indeed in bad luck.

The Monessen Independent throws cold water on the effort to secure a free bridge at Belle Vernon by saying:

There is a movement on foot to load the old Belle Vernon bridge onto the county and put it on the list of those free of tolls. The bridge is now owned and controlled by a corporation and a moderate toll is charged to passengers. The petition claims that the payment of tolls has become burdensome for the traveling public. Such an allegation seems more of a joke than a reality when a person comes to consider the age of the structure. People have been crossing that bridge for years and there has never been any complaint on former occasions about the burdensome tolls. It seems since the construction of the new bridge across the river at Lock 4, the old Belle Vernon bridge has been put on the bum so far as travel is concerned which has resulted in a movement to load it on the counties. If this scheme holds on, it will likely only be a short time until there is a clamor for another new joint county bridge. The Monongahela bridge experiment should serve as a lesson that the purchase of old bridges is an expensive as well as a worthless investment.

A union of the borough of Connellsville and New Haven has been advocated for sometime by the Connellsville Daily News, but the recent overwhelming defeat by the voters of Wilkinsburg of a proposition to unite that borough with Pittsburg has prompted the News now to refer very cautiously and winsomely to the matter by saying: "It will soon be time for the people to vote on the question of consolidation Connellsville and New Haven. We will be good enough to use the word 'consolidation' instead of 'annexation,' because it will not be so much the latter as the former. New Haven is not to be looked upon as a village to be seized and forced in out of insolation. It has its debts and its taxation like Connellsville, and therefore must be recognized as an important borough. The two towns could consolidate on a very near equal basis. By being ranked as a first class city they can have many benefits which do not now enjoy. Consolidation before the 1910 census should be the slogan of both towns."

Advertising For Federal Building Sites.

Treasury Department,
Office of The Secretary,
Washington, D. C., June 6, 1908.

Proposals will be received, to be opened at 2 o'clock p. m., July 7, 1908, for the sale or donation to the United States of a suitable site, centrally and conveniently located for the Federal building to be erected in Charleroi, Pennsylvania. A corner lot of approximately 150 x 150 feet is required. Each proposal must give the price, the character of foundations obtainable, the proximity to street car, sewer, gas, and water mains, etc., and must be accompanied by a diagram indicating the proposed site. The north point, the dimensions and grades of the land, the widths and paving of adjacent streets and alleys, whether or not the alleys are public or private, and whether or not the city owns land occupied by sidewalks. The vendor must pay all expenses connected with furnishing evidences of title and deeds of conveyance. Improvements on the property must be reserved by the vendor; but pending the commencement of the Federal building there may remain on the land upon payment of a reasonable ground rent. The grantee must, however, remove all improvements on thirty days' notice so to do. The right to reject any proposals reserved. Each proposal must be sealed, marked "Proposal for Federal building site at Charleroi Pennsylvania," and mailed to the secretary of the Treasury (Supervising Architect), Washington, D. C. No special form of proposal is required or provided.

GEO. B. CORTELYOU,
Secretary.

WOMEN'S WOES

Charleroi Women Are Finding Relief at Last.

It does seem that women have more than a fair share of the aches and pains that afflict humanity; they must "keep up," must attend to duties in spite of constantly aching backs, or headaches, dizzy spells, bearing-down pains; they must stoop over, when to stoop means torture. They must walk and bend and work with racking pains and many aches from kidney ills. Kidneys cause more suffering than any other organ of the body. Keep the kidneys well and health is easily maintained. Read of a remedy for kidneys only that helps and cures the kidneys and is endorsed by people you know.

Mrs. Charles Bromwick, 714 Washington Ave., Charleroi, Pa., says: "About two years ago I suffered a severe attack of kidney disease and although I used many remedies was unable to obtain relief. My head ached almost constantly and I suffered with severe pains in my back and was constantly worn out and tired. Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me and I procured a box at Piper Bros.' drug store. In a very few days I felt the good effects of this remedy and a continued use of the remedy effected a complete cure. I have had no return of the trouble and am glad of an opportunity to endorse Doan's Kidney Pills."

Making More Than a Living

Nearly every man who works steadily makes more than a living. During these slow times the men who have saved something appreciate what it is to have something laid away for a rainy day. A few cents a day soon counts up, and when savings are placed in a bank at a tidy interest the sum soon grows to proportions that make it a safeguard against want when work is not plentiful. Figure up how much more than a living you are making now, and place the difference in this bank. Four per cent. interest paid in savings department.

HIT THE WRONG BANK

Story of the Man Who Wanted to Open a Small Account.

A WALL STREET EXPERIENCE.

The Would Be Depositor of Modest Means Found Himself in a Place For Millionaires—An Official's Courteous Explanation and Advice.

"When," said the man who writes pieces for magazines and things, "by some strange and unprecedented chance I had got hold of a matter of $350 all at one and the same time it looked big to me. By an even more curious chance there wasn't anything that I really needed to do with the money, so I decided that I'd bank it.

"Now, I knew in a general way that in order to put money in a bank you've got to be known and give your pedigree and look respectable, and all that, and I hated to approach a bank without any sort of credentials. Therefore I went to the business manager of a certain magazine which occasionally prints pieces that I write and asked him what I'd better do.

"'Simplest thing in the world,' said he. 'I'll give you a note to our bank.'

"That sounded fine to me. He wrote me the note, and I started for the bank a good deal tickled over how easy the little depositing proceeding had been made.

"The bank to which I had the note is in Wall street. I asked the uniformed man who was standing around where I'd find the receiving teller's window, and he pointed that window out to me. I got into line and watched the teller take in money.

"I must own that I was a bit stalled to note the great size of some of the deposits he was receiving. Why, fellows were giving the money to him by the satchelful. But I had my note in my pocket, and I remained complacent enough with that consciousness.

"When I reached the receiving teller I passed in my note, and the receiving teller, a decidedly civil young man, opened it and read it. Then he looked at me, after which he read the note again, this time with a sort of puzzled expression on his countenance. I didn't see why the receiving teller should be puzzled over such a simple matter, but puzzled he seemed. He rang a bell, and the uniformed man who'd directed me to that window appeared.

"'Show this gentleman to the office of the cashier,' said the receiving teller to the uniformed man, at the same time regarding me with a pleasant smile, and the uniformed man led me down the passageway and took me behind a railing where there was a handsome gray haired gentleman sitting at a desk.

"The handsome gray haired gentleman received me cordially and invited me to be seated. I handed him my note, which the receiving teller had returned to me, and he leaned back in his chair and read it carefully. Then he, too, looked puzzled after he'd read the note a second time. Then he looked at me pleasantly over the tops of his spectacles.

"'Ahem!' said the handsome gray haired gentleman, not disagreeably, but in a nice, banker-like way. 'Might I—er—inquire, Mr. Penphist, without seeming to be unduly inquisitive, as to how—er—large a—er—balance you would usually be carrying?'

"Well, that was a civil enough question, nothing inquisitive about it.

"'Why, sir,' I said to the handsome gray haired gentleman, 'I am opening an account with a matter of some $350, but I shall no doubt make some additions to that within the next two months, and probably I shall carry a balance of—well, say, $500 or $600 right along.'

"The kindly cashier with the gray hair fairly beamed upon me.

"'Er—just so, just so,' said he, twiddling his thumbs. 'We feel complimented, Mr. Penphist, we really do, that you should have come to us. And it is unfortunate—er—really unfortunate, that we are so utterly lacking in facilities for taking care of accounts of such a character.'

"'You see, Mr. Penphist, our institution is of—er—a sort of special character. It is used as a depository by—well, perhaps I should put it in a clearer manner. I say it to you quite in confidence, you understand, Mr. Penphist, but we have only 1,600 depositors on our books, and these 1,600 depositors' aggregate balances amount all the time to a matter of $110,000,000.'

"Well, that was about enough. I saw the light then. I'd drifted into a millionaires' bank on the careless credentials of a business manager who'd written me that note no doubt in a thoughtless mood.

"The gray haired cashier acted bully about it. He recommended a fine bank to me—one that combines perfect responsibility with the necessary facilities for handling accounts like—er—yours, Mr. Penphist,' he added.

"For all of the cashier's niceness I walked out of there into the cold gray light of Wall street feeling like a good deal of a human caterpillar.

"I didn't go to the bank recommended to me by the cashier; didn't have the nerve to visit any more banks. I've got $62 left now of the $350, but I'm going to use that as a nest egg, and maybe some day even yet I'll have a bank account."—New York Sun.

Dailey got back in the game yesterday and Heinz will probably be in today.

A single at the right time is worth more than two or three doubles when there is none on.

Coulson from State college has reported to Charleroi and will more than likely be in the game today.

Charleroi plays at Fairmont tomorrow. Today is their last appearance at home until July 4 in the morning.

Livengood, infielder from Albright college and Nebinger, the short stop from W. V. U. have reported to Uniontown.

The injury secured by Charley McCloskey is more serious than at first thought. He is compelled to use crutches to get around.

Probably if Charleroi could get a regular team upon the field a couple of days they could get going again. By looking over the scores it can be seen that in every game played since May 20 there has been at least one sub on the team and as high as three.

A STORY OF HEROISM

Showing How Brave Men Can Calmly Meet Death.

WRECK OF THE BIRKENHEAD.

The Way This British Vessel Went Down Off the Cape of Good Hope. Most of the Crew Were Lost and All the Women and Children Saved.

Visitors to the hospital of the old pensioners at Chelsea will perhaps have noticed in the colonnade a simple memorial tablet, placed there by order of the late Queen Victoria to record the heroic constancy and discipline of the officers and soldiers who lost their lives in the wreck of the transport Birkenhead off the Cape of Good Hope on Feb. 26, 1852. On Jan. 7 in that year, after embarking re-enforcements amounting to fifteen officers and 476 men for the troops engaged in the Kaffir war, the Birkenhead left Ireland for the cape. On board were also 166 women and children, the wives and families of soldiers. All went well till the transport reached Simon's Town, where ten officers and eighteen men were landed. The ship continued her course on the evening of Feb. 25. But the captain in his anxiety for a quick passage unfortunately kept so close to the shore that during the night the ship got among the rocks which line the coast. About three miles off Danger point at 2 o'clock in the morning of the 26th, while all except those on watch were sleeping peacefully in their hammocks, the ship struck with a violent shock. The bulk of the men on board were young soldiers.

The rush of water on the Birkenhead striking was so great that most of the soldiers on the lower troop deck were drowned in their hammocks. The remainder, with all the officers, appeared on deck, many only partly dressed, and fell in as orderly and as quietly as on the barrack square. Calling the officers round him, Lieutenant Colonel Seton of the Seventy-fourth highlanders, the senior officer on board, impressed on them the necessity for preserving order and silence among the men. The services of the next senior, Captain Wright, Ninety-first highlanders, were placed at the disposal of the commander of the ship to carry out whatever orders he might consider essential. Sixty men were put on the chain pumps on the lower after deck and told off in three reliefs. Sixty more were put on to the tackles of the paddle box boats, and the remainder were brought on to the poop to ease the fore part of the ship, as she was rolling heavily. The commander next ordered the officers' chargers to be pitched out of the gangway. The plunging and terrified horses were got up and cast over, five of them managing to swim ashore. The cutter was then got ready for the women and children, who had been collected under the poop awning, and they were passed in one by one. There being room in the boat for one or two more, the order was given for any trumpeter or bugler boys to be taken. A young drummer standing near was told by an officer to get into the boat, but, drawing himself up, exclaimed that he drew man's pay and would stick by his comrades. The cutter then shoved off in charge of one of the ship's officers, and the women and children were safe.

No sooner was she clear than the entire bow of the vessel broke off at the foremast, the bowsprit going up in the air toward the foretopmast. The funnel also went over the side, carrying away the starboard paddle box and boat and crushing the men on the tackles. The paddle box boat capsized on being lowered, and the large boat in the center of the ship could not be got up.

The men were then ordered on to the poop, where they stood calmly awaiting their fate. Within a few minutes the vessel broke in two, crosswise, just abaft the engine room, and the stern began rapidly to fill. In this extremity the commander called out, "Those who can swim jump overboard and make for the boats!" but the officers begged the soldiers not to, as the boat with the women and children would be swamped. They were young men in the prime of life, with all before them, yet no one moved, nor did any sign of terror or fear escape them. Lower and lower sank the vessel into the deadly sea. The old transport shivered, gave a final plunge and disappeared, carrying with her the band of heroes on deck and those working below at the pumps.

Men of all ages and ranks they were—the colonel and the drummer boy, officers of gentle birth and men from the workshop, the plow and the mine, but all animated with the same heroic resolution, fortitude and chivalry—as cool as though they had been on their parade ground, with as much courage as in action in the field. A few managed to cling to the rigging of the mainmast, part of which remained out of water, while others got hold of floating pieces of wood and were eventually rescued, but of fourteen officers and 458 men no fewer than nine officers and 349 men perished, many falling prey to the attacks of the sharks, which surrounded the ship in shoals, waiting for their victims. Every woman and child was saved.

Perhaps the greatest compliment ever paid to the memory of the brave was the order of the king of Prussia for the account of the wreck of the Birkenhead to be read on three successive parades at the head of every regiment in his army, and it was spoken of in every school in Prussia and Germany.—London Globe.

A GHOST STORY.

The Spectral Horseman That Visits Wycollar Hall.

This ghost story is contributed by a correspondent of an English magazine: "Wycollar Hall, near Colne, was long the seat of the Cunliffes of Billington. They were noted persons in their time, but evil days came, and their ancestral estates passed out of their hands. In the days of the commonwealth their loyalty cost them dear, and ultimately they retired to Wycollar with a remnant only of their once extensive property. About 1819 the last of the family passed away, and the hall is now a mass of ruins. Little but the antique fireplace remains entire, and even the room alluded to in the following legend cannot now be identified. Tradition says that once every year a specter horseman visits Wycollar Hall. He is attired in the costume of the early Stuart period, and the trappings of his horse are of a most uncouth description.

"On the evening of his visit the weather is always wild and tempestuous. There is no moon to light the lonely roads, and the residents of the district do not venture out of their cottages. When the wind howls loudest the horseman can be heard dashing up the road at full speed, and, after crossing the narrow bridge, he suddenly stops at the door of the hall. The rider then dismounts and makes his way up the broad oaken stairs into one of the rooms of the house. Dreadful screams, as from a woman, are then heard, which soon subside into groans. The horseman then makes his appearance at the door, at once mounts his steed and gallops off.

"His body can be seen through by those who may chance to be present; his horse appears to be wild with rage, and its nostrils stream with fire. The tradition is that one of the Cunliffes murdered his wife in that room and that the specter horseman is the ghost of the murderer, who is doomed to pay an annual visit to the home of his victim. She is said to have predicted the extinction of the family, which, according to the story, has been literally fulfilled."

Two Rights and a Wrong.

A Camden shoe man sold a pair of shoes recently to a woman and after she had left the store discovered that he had made the mistake of giving the customer two rights instead of a right and left, as is customary. Rushing after the woman, he offered to make the wrong right, but was curtly informed that the customer was satisfied, as she had a wooden leg on the left side anyhow and needed only rights. Now the dealer considers himself flimflammed, because for the price of one pair of shoes he has really supplied the customer with two pairs.—Kennebec Journal.

LOCAL OFFICER, HELD UNDER $1000 BAIL FOR APPEARANCE AT COURT

Justice Of Peace E. E. Rice Sues Detective W. H. Riggle.

TRIAL AT MONONGAHELA

Aiding Prisoners To Escape And Compounding a Felony Is The Charge.

On a charge of aiding prisoners to escape and compounding a felony, Detective W. H. Riggle, of Charleroi, was held for court under $1000 bail, Wednesday evening by Alderman Elwood, of Monongahela. The private prosecutor is Justice of the Peace E. E. Rice, of Charleroi.

The suit arises from the arrest and subsequent dismissal of James H. Boise and William Richards, who were charged with having stolen rings and harness fittings belonging to the Walton and Charleroi Lumber companies. Justice Rice claims that each warrant was sworn out before him for the two men, and an information was made, but not signed by J. W. Cornell of the Walton company. The search warrant was given to Riggle who arrested the men. They were brought to Charleroi. Rice claims and the affair settled by Detective Riggle and representatives of the lumber firm without he so much as facing the prisoner or having notification that the alleged transaction was to take place. Riggle it is stated received $15 for his share in the transacting, Chief of Police Albright $5 and the representatives of the company a certain sum, the latter however for the damage done. This, Rice claims was unlawful inasmuch as the warrant was sworn out there, and he only had jurisdiction.

Detective Riggle claims that the matter was merely a business agreement between the representatives of the companies, the men and himself. According to his statement the matter was to be dropped upon payment of all damages and costs. The $15, he said, was for the costs. He states that no information was made before Justice Rice and no unlawful transaction was made. W. H. Coles, of the Wilbur Hotel furnished Riggle's bail bond.

No charge is made against Chief Albright.

ANOTHER LOST BY CHARLEROI

Inability To Hit When Hits Meant Runs The Cause.

Although getting one more hit than Fairmont and aided by two errors by the opponents, both of which materially figured in the run getting Charleroi was unable to pull out a victory yesterday. Fairmont took the game in the fourth inning and although the score was tied by Charleroi in the sixth round they could not get the run across that would give them victory. In the seventh inning a golden opportunity was passed up when a single and double resulted in nothing. In the ninth with two in and two down one lone single would have tied the score and given another grip on the game but the best that could be produced by the batter was an easy one to short who retired the runner at first. Humphries started the heaving for Charleroi and worked until the score was tied in the sixth inning, when Osborne took the hill and finished the contest. Four hits for a total of six bases and one run was made off Arch while Humphries' delivery netted the visitors six hits for twelve sacks and three runs.

Charleroi scored first in the argument and it came in the second inning when Nally singled and was safe at second on McCombs' error. Dailey followed with a single which sent Nally over. From that until the sixth cyphers were drawn. Dunn opened up with one to Gates who made a mess of it. Elliott then picked one off for the entire circuit which made two runs over. The next two went out in rotation. Dailey beat one out fo two sacks but died as Humphries could get nothing but three healthy swipes at the air. The first tally came to the Fairmont crew in the fourth round. After McCombs had fanned, Core bit for three cushions. Zurlage was on the job and came up with a double. To keep the wheels of progress going Snodgrass singled and sent Zurlage over the last mile stone. The run that evened up the score was made by Gates in the fifth, and he needed no assistance, as he swiped one that gave him an opportunity to touch all four stations before the pill could be returned. The score that took the life out of the game came to Fairmont in the eighth round. Haught, the first up picked out one of Osborne's benders for three cushions where he rested while McCombs died from short to first. Core was right there when needed and broke off the single that won the game for Fairmont. With one down in the ninth Osborne singled. Houser skied to right and Cosgrove made two on by walking. A hit at this time would have scored a run and the glad hand was given Dunn when he walked

Explosion Yesterday In Ellsworth Mine No. 1 Happens just A Few Moments After 500 Men Leave Mine.

ELECTRIC SPARK SAID TO HAVE CAUSED CATASTROPHE

As a result of an explosion in Ellsworth mine No. 1, of the Pittsburg Coal company, at Ellsworth yesterday afternoon three men are dead and two more fatally injured.

The Dead.

Frank Beal, aged 25, English, leaves wife and step child.

Stephen Mazeli, aged 26, Slav, leaves wife in Europe.

Stephen Frenzeh, aged 32, Slav, leaves wife and one child at Ellsworth.

The Injured.

Pete Hazop, aged 19, Italian, badly burned externally.

Peter Hazop, cousin of above, aged 18, Italian, burned internally, and badly bruised.

Five others were slightly injured.

The explosion occurred in No. 9 west entry at about 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon, just a few moments after nearly 500 men of the day shift had left the workings, leaving about thirty men inside. Almost all these were near the mouth of the slope and able to reach the opening before the force of the explosion overtook them.

The bodies of the men who were killed were soon recovered by a rescueing party, and the injured brought to the surface. The Hazops were hastened to the Memorial Hospital, Monongahela, it being seen that their injuries would likely prove fatal. The others were taken to the hospital later on.

Although the explosion occurred at 4:30, Mine Inspector Henry Loutitt of Monongahela was no notified until an hour later. He at once got into communication with the officials but upon learning that nothing could be done at the time by him, did no go out. He has been investigating however and seems to think the explosion was caused by an electric spark.

The Ellsworth No. 1 mine is the same one in which the explosion took place about two months ago on the morning of April 23, four lives being lost then. The accident at that time was in the same part of the workings as that of yesterday.

This is the mine over which there was a great dealt of controversy three years ago, the company wanting to install electricity, and the inspectors, principal among whom was Mr. Loutitt, claming it would not be safe. The court appointed three unintereste men, to examine the mine, Jesse K. Johnson, Pat Dolan and another Pennsylvania man. The former resigned and O. A. Blackburn was appointed in his stead. It is stated that they were not practical mining men. They reported favorably on the matter of installing the electrical system, and the company acted accordingly. It is said this has been the cause of much trouble.

Of those killed yesterday, the Englishman, Beal will be buried Monday in the Monongahela cemetery. The bodies of the two Slavs will be interred on Sunday afternoon at Monongahela.

Personals.

Dr. C. S. Johnson is visiting friends in Uniontown this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Lize Lewis of Elizabeth are visitors in Charleroi.

Benjamin Crawford left today for Tarentum to spend a few days with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Reeves and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Reeves took an automobile trip to Pittsburg today.

Mrs. Frank Johnson and daughter Lydia, of Nelsonville, Ohio, are spending a few days with relatives here.

Mrs. S. E. Upton and daughter, Mrs. Thomas Buckley, son Harry, of Fairmont, W. Va., are visiting the former's daughter, Mrs. J. J. King.

Byrne.

On Friday, June 19, at 3:50 p. m., at the Allegheny General hospital, John Joseph Byrne, son of Thomas J. and Mary Bryne of Pittsburg died.

Funeral services will be held on Monday, June 22, at 9:30: a. m. from the late residence, 1510 Freemont street, Northside. Requiem high mass at St. Peter's Church, Sherman avenue, at 10 o'clock. Friends of the family and members of K. O. C., of Charleroi; Order of Elks, of Charleroi Order of Eagles, of Donora, and Charleroi are respectfully invited to attend. Mr. Byrne is well known in Charleroi. He was formerly a member of the local order B. P. O. E.

In Sorrow.

In sorrow, Charleroi Council, No. 956, Knights of Columbus, announces the death of a loved member, John Joseph Byrnes, who died at the Allegheny General Hospital Friday, June 19, 1908 at 3:50 p. m. All Brothers of Charleroi and Sister Councils assemble at his late home, 1510 Freemont St., Allegheny on Monday morning June 22nd at 9:00 o'clock to attend the funeral in a body.

Requeim Mass at 9:30 at St. Peters church, Allegheny.

Harry T. Correll,
Grand Knight.

Greatness.

There is a kind of elevation which does not depend on fortune. It is a certain air which distinguishes us and seems to destine us for great things. It is a price which we imperceptibly set on ourselves. By this quality we usurp the deference of other men, and it puts us, in general, more above them than birth, dignity or even merit itself. —La Rochefoucauld.

A Coincidence.

"I'm afraid, George," said his fiancee, "that you are going from bad to worse."

"Quite a coincidence," muttered George. "That's what Clara said when I threw her over for you."

Spurgeon's Complaint.

Mr. Spurgeon once complained that his deacons were worse than the devil.

"Resist the devil," said he, "and he will fly from you, but resist a deacon and he will fly at you."

Hope.

"There is no sweeter suffering than hope." So runs an old German proverb, melancholy text for hearts that bitter disappointment has cured and to whom all hope is but memory.

INJUNCTION SERVED TO RESTRAIN PAVING OF MONESSEN STREET

Property Holders In That Place Claim That Damage Was Done.

HOUSES ON REED AVENUE

Are Ones Over Which There Will Likely Be Some Trouble.

Dr. W. D. Hunter, of Monessen, and O. F. Piper, of California, have had a temporary injunction restraining the paving of Reed avenue, Monesser, until the city has reimbursed them for damages that they claim will result to their property on account of the grade established by the city on Reed avenue. Both men are owners of valuable property on Reed avenue near Sixth street in Monessen and they allege that a deep cut is being made in front of their places which will not only injure the appearance of same, but will diminish the value as well. Dr. Hunter claims that on several occasions he has made an effort to have the matter amicably adjusted but that the street and roads committee neglected to take action.

The curbing is set in front of all the property where it is claimed the damage has been done, but the palintiffs refuse to allow the work to progress further until there is a statement.

In speaking of the injunction proceedings W. A. Miller, a member of the street and road committee said that if the papers were served that bond would likely be put up to sustain dameges and the work of paving continued. Dr. Hunter spent both yesterday and today in Greensburg in the the interest of his suit.

ONE DEAD FROM HEAT

Monessen Man Succumbs While Sitting On Porch Reading Paper.

One death indirectly due to the heat, occurred in Monessen Thursday evening at about 5:30 when Robert W. Bretney, employed as clerk by the Carnegie Steel Co. here, was stricken and died a few moments later of heart failure. The dead man was seated on the front porch of the residence of Fred L. Luce, of Schoonmake avenue reading the convention news when he fell from his chair. He was found dead at about 5:40 o'clock.

The dead man was 35 years of age and was a resident of Belle Vernon until a few months ago. He had been rooming at the Luce home for several months. He was a son-in-law of Wm. McNutt, a well known Rostraver township resident. It will be remembered that his wife died suddenly about six months ago. The remains were shipped to the home of his parents in Washington, D. C., over the P. V. and C. road from Charleroi at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

REDUCTION ORDERED ON ASSESSMENTS

Somerset, Pa., June 19.—Judge Francis J. Koser, of the Somerset county courts, today handed down a decision on an appeal from the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company in which he holds that the county commissioners, in the absence of any law authorizing the action cannot impose an increased valuation on coal lands acreage because the coal is being removed. The coal company appealed to the courts on the action of the county commissioners in assessing coal lands higher than other property because after the removal of coal its value would be decreased. In assessing real estate, coal or other property, Judge Koser said its value and not the ownership should alone be considered. He ordered the reduction of the assessment made by the county commissioners, placing the costs in the case upon the county and ordered the county to return to the Reading company any excess taxes on the property which may have been paid.

STORM PLAYS HAVOC IN WASHINGTON COUNTY

There was considerable damage done by storms in Washington county last night. Fourteen of the sixteen high stacks on the American Wire and Steel mills at Donora were blown down and considerable damage done. No one was hurt.

The property holders at Eldora suffered considerably. The Holman sign at that place was blown of and hit the window of a trolley car coming towards Charleroi. Eighty feet of fence around the yard of William Sanders was destroyed. At the same place cellar doors were lifted and set down again nearly 70 feet away.

Scarcely any damage was done in Charleroi, while the residents of Washington, the county seat, suffered much.

1907—Fatal political riot in Lisbon, Portugal.

ASTRONOMICAL EVENTS.

Sun sets 7:30, rises 4:25; moon rises 12:51 a. m.; moon's age 23 days; 3 p.m., sun farthest north; summer solstice; 3:22 p. m., moon in conjunction with Saturn, passing from west to east of the planet, 3 degrees south.

A Hitch?

It is stated the entente that had almost been secured between the Observer and the Canonsburg Notes, partys of the first part, and the Republican party of Pennsylvania, party of the second part, by which the Canonsburg Notes was to have been appointed as Consul to Mwfp, has been badly endangered.

The Notes has raised a new point by insisting that Hon. William Flinn and Max Leslie, of Pittsburg, accompany Messrs. McNicholls and Durham, of Philadelphia, to see President Roosevelt and ask for the appointment. The Notes, it is claimed, has stated bluntly that it must have representatives of its own there, and selected Messrs. Flinn and Leslie because they, too, had undergone the steam roller process, on April 11th, there or thereabouts, and could, therefore, intelligently discuss the subject.

It is said the wires were kept red-hot last night and while there is not the slightest doubt that Messrs. Flinn and Leslie will "go along," still until the matter has reached a satisfactory ending great anxiety will prevail.

However, when it was learned late last night that President Roosevelt had stated that he would delay going on his vacation until the matter was settled there was a visible sign of joy around the Walton House in Philadelphia.

A Lucky Combination.

The selection of Congressman Sherman, of New York, as a running mate for Secretary Taft, of Ohio, recalls the success that has attended the Republican party when it selected its nominees from Ohio and New York.

Beginning with Hayes and Wheeler in 1876 the combination has been tried five times and has lost out but once. That time being when Harrison and Reid were the candidates in 1892. June 18, the date upon which Mr. Taft was nominated for the Presidency, has been one of good omen to the American people. The battle of Bunker Hill was fought on that date and Abraham Lincoln was nominated for President on that date.

So, June 18, distinctly marked two epochs in the affairs of the American people. Mighty events marked each of them that made for freedom and progress and the making and perpetuation of the best government the sun ever shone on or ever will shine on. It was an auspicious day upon which to select a candidate to carry on the Roosevelt policies, a harbinger of a great victory in November.

When Are We Civilized?

The victims of the steam roller at Chicago are vieing with each other in sending messages teeming with good fellowship and tenders of cordial support and hopes for success. But those doing that are men in every sense of the word, ornaments to their party and whose illustrious services for the Nation are a source of pride to all of their countrymen.

Contrast their conduct with that of the victims of the steam roller in Washington county. A torrent of violent abuse of everybody and everything. Whole communities have been stigmatized, the voters of the county denounced as bums and boodlers, who have fallen to such depths of moral and civic degradation that they are beyond hope of redemption this side of the grave. Is that not a beautiful return for the honors and power these same voters have conferred upon their defamers for so long a period?

Practice Not Theory.

The dispatches this morning contained accounts of two bad accidents, one near Monongahela, the other near Scranton. In the latter five men were blown to atoms because one of them used an iron tamping bar to tamp a dynamite cartridge. What, besides an apprenticeship under a practical miner, would have taught that man the folly of such an act? Nothing. That man had no more business in a mine than a child with a lighted torch would have in a powder house.

Practical knowledge is what the miner needs and when he has that he can safely leave the scientific part of mining to the officials.

Slow Mental Ripening.

Not infrequently those mentalities that ripen the slowest last the longest, and often the history of these great men has been persistent neglect and worldly coldness until forty or more years have passed before their greatness has been conceded by their contemporaries. Truly "the life history of a great genius is almost invariably one of a sad and somber tone, a walk apart from the beaten path." Such are the words of one who should know what the "doers of deeds" must endure. Be this as it may, it is now recognized that many of the finest achievements in business, statesmanship, literature and in all activities have been wrought by men long past sixty. Writes one, "No strong man will accept sixty as the arbitrary limit of his ambition and working ability."—W. A. Newman Dorland in Century.

The Silkworm.

Upon attaining full growth the silkworm becomes restless, stops feeding and throws out silken threads. The silk is formed in a fluid condition and issues from the body of the worm in a glutinous state, apparently in a single thread. From this silk the worm constructs its cocoon, an interval of from three to five days being required to complete its imprisonment in the envelope. In order that the silken strands may not be subjected to the danger of breakage by the moth emerging from the cocoon, the cocoons are steamed till the inclosed insects are dead. After this the silk may be wound off.—New York American.

Those songs both grave and gay,
Became such painful whinings
As do our songs today.

Among the Exchanges

In speaking of the anonymous character assassin the Connellsville Courier truthfully says:

We are in recipt of an anonymous communication which says: "Mrs. —— of Trotter and Mrs.—— of Dunbar were arrested on Tuesday afternoon for being drunk and acting disorderly on the street. Please publish this."

An examination of the police records fails to show that any such persons were arrested on the day mentioned or arraigned in the mayor's court on this or any other charges.

This illustrateds the folly of publishing anonymous communications, especially those of a libelous character. The motive of this communication savors too strongly of malice. Newspapers print many things which they would rather omit from their columns, but as a rule they set nothing down in malice. The anonymous communication is usually malicious and often untruthful; it is, therefore, doubly objectionable.

It is [illegible] want the newspapers to assume the responsibility of printing unfounded stories bubbling over with bile, bitter with personal spleen, exuding little else than petty spite.

It is evident that the editor of the Scottdale Independent is an "old timer" or else he could not have written so truthfully about the boy and the circus. Hear him:

There's nothing that recalls a man's boyhood days more vividly than the circus. It is a trite saying that many fathers are mighty glad that the taking of their children gives an excuse to attend all the circuses that come to the city, but there are a lot of them who are not ashamed of the fact that they are merely boys grown up, and go to the circuses because they enjoy them. The odor of the animals and sawdust brings back the days when, knowing the circus was coming they would get up before daylight, not to see the big vans unloaded from the trains, for circuses did not travel by railway those days, but to walk out in the country, a few miles to meet the caravans, which traveled overland from town to town. To walk into town beside the elephant was the greatest fun imaginable. There was not as much to the average circus then as there is today, but there was plenty for all to see, and the boy who was not permitted to at least hang around the show grounds was indeed in bad luck.

The Monessen Independent throws cold water on the effort to secure a free bridge at Belle Vernon by saying:

There is a movement on foot to load the old Belle Vernon bridge onto the county and put it on the list of those free of tolls. The bridge is now owned and controlled by a corporation and a moderate toll is charged to passengers. The petition claims that the payment of tolls has become burdensome for the traveling public. Such an allegation seems more of a joke than a reality when a person comes to consider the age of the structure. People have been crossing that bridge for years and there has never been any complaint on former occasions about the burdensome tolls. It seems since the construction of the new bridge across the river at Lock 4, the old Belle Vernon bridge has been put on the bum so far as travel is concerned which has resulted in a movement to load it on the counties. If this scheme holds on, it will likely only be a short time until there is a clamor for another new joint county bridge. The Monongahela bridge experiment should serve as a lesson that the purchase of old bridges is an expensive as well as a worthless investment.

A union of the borough of Connellsville and New Haven has been advocated for sometime by the Connellsville Daily News, but the recent overwhelming defeat by the voters of Wilkinsburg of a proposition to unite that borough with Pittsburg has prompted the News now to refer very cautiously and winsomely to the matter by saying: "It will soon be time for the people to vote on the question of consolidation Connellsville and New Haven. We will be good enough to use the word 'consolidation' instead of 'annexation,' because it will not be so much the latter as the former. New Haven is not to be looked upon as a village to be seized and forced in out of insolation. It has its debts and its taxation like Connellsville, and therefore must be recognized as an important borough. The two towns could consolidate on a very near equal basis. By being ranked as a first class city they can have many benefits which do not now enjoy. Consolidation before the 1910 census should be the slogan of both towns."

Advertising For Federal Building Sites.

Treasury Department,
Office of Supervising Architect,
Washington, D. C., June 6, 1908.

Proposals will be received at this office until 12 o'clock noon, eastern standard time, on Monday, the 7th day of September, 1908, for the donation to the United States of a suitable site, centrally and conveniently located, for the Federal building to be erected at Charleroi, Pennsylvania. A tract of approximately 12 X 150 feet is required. Each proposal must give the name of the person or persons making the same, and if a corporation the proposition must be signed by the president or other officer of the corporation, and the corporate seal affixed. Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check upon some national bank, or by the money, in the sum of $500, which will be returned to the proponent if his proposition is not accepted. The successful proponent will be required to furnish a satisfactory abstract of title and deeds of conveyance. Incumbrances on the property must be removed by the owner before the commencement of the work of construction. The United States reserves the right upon payment of a reasonable rental rent. The grantor must, however, remove all improvements on thirty days' notice so to do. The right to reject any proposals reserved. Each proposal must be sealed, marked "Proposal for Federal building site at Charleroi, Pennsylvania," and mailed to the secretary of the Treasury (Supervising Architect's), Washington, D. C. No special form of proposal is required or provided.

WOMEN'S WOES

Charleroi Women Are Finding Relief at Last.

It does seem that women have more than a fair share of the aches and pains that afflict humanity; they must "keep up," must attend to duties in spite of constantly aching backs, or headaches, dizzy spells, bearing-down pains; they must stoop over, when to stoop means torture. They must walk and bend and work with racking pains and many aches from kidney ills. Kidneys cause more suffering than any other organ of the body. Keep the kidneys well and health is easily maintained. Read of a remedy for kidneys only that helps and cures the kidneys and is endorsed by people you know.

Mrs. Charles Bronwick, 714 Washington Ave., Charleroi, Pa., says: "About two years ago I suffered a severe attack of kidney disease and although I used many remedies was unable to obtain relief. My head ached almost constantly and I suffered with severe pains in my back and was constantly worn out and tired. Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me and I procured a box at Piper Bros.' drug store. In a very few days I felt the good effects of this remedy and a continued use of the remedy effected a complete cure. I have had no return of the trouble and am glad of an opportunity to endorse Doan's Kidney Pills."

Making More Than a Living

Nearly every man who works steadily makes more than a living. During these slow times the men who have saved something appreciate what it is to have something laid away for a rainy day. A few cents a day soon mounts up, and when savings are placed in a bank at a tidy interest the sum soon grows to proportions that make it a safeguard against want when work is not plentiful. Figure up how much more than a living you are making now, and place the difference in this bank. Four per cent. interest paid in savings department.

HIT THE WRONG BANK

Story of the Man Who Wanted to Open a Small Account.

A WALL STREET EXPERIENCE.

The Would Be Depositor of Modest Means Found Himself In a Place For Millionaires—An Official's Courteous Explanation and Advice.

"When," said the man who writes pieces for magazines and things, "by some strange and unprecedented chance, I had got hold of a matter of $350 all at one and the same time it looked big to me. By an even more curious chance there wasn't anything that I really needed to do with the money, so I decided that I'd bank it.

"Now, I knew in a general way that in order to put money in a bank you've got to be known and give your pedigree and look respectable, and all that, and I hated to approach a bank without any sort of credentials. Therefore I went to the business manager of a certain magazine which occasionally prints pieces that I write and asked him what I'd better do.

"'Simplest thing in the world,' said he. 'I'll give you a note to our bank.'

"That sounded fine to me. He wrote me the note, and I started for the bank a good deal tickled over how easy the little depositing proceeding had been made.

"The bank to which I had the note is in Wall street. I asked the uniformed man who was standing around where I'd find the receiving teller's window, and he pointed that window out to me. I got into line and watched the teller take in money.

"I must own that I was a bit stalled to note the great size of some of the deposits he was receiving. Why, fellows were giving the money to him by the satchelful. But I had my note in my pocket, and I remained complacent enough with that consciousness.

"When I reached the receiving teller I passed in my note, and the receiving teller, a decidedly civil young man, opened it and read it. Then he looked at me, after which he read the note again, this time with a sort of puzzled expression on his countenance. I didn't see why the receiving teller should be puzzled over such a simple matter, but puzzled he seemed. He rang a bell, and the uniformed man who'd directed me to that window appeared.

"'Show this gentleman to the office of the cashier,' said the receiving teller to the uniformed man, at the same time regarding me with a pleasant smile, and the uniformed man led me down the passageway and took me behind a railing where there was a handsome gray haired gentleman sitting at a desk.

"The handsome gray haired gentleman received me cordially and invited me to be seated. I handed him my note, which the receiving teller had returned to me, and he leaned back in his chair and read it carefully. Then he, too, looked puzzled after he'd read the note a second time. Then he looked at me pleasantly over the tops of his spectacles.

"'Ahem!' said the handsome gray haired gentleman, not disagreeably, but in a nice, banker-like way. 'Might I—er—inquire, Mr. Penphist, without seeming to be unduly inquisitive, as to how—er—large a—er—balance you would usually be carrying?

"Well, that was a civil enough question, nothing inquisitive about it.

"'Why, sir,' I said to the handsome gray haired gentleman, 'I am opening an account with a matter of some $350, but I shall no doubt make some additions to that within the next two months, and probably I shall carry a balance of—well, say, $500 or $600 right along.'

"The kindly cashier with the gray hair fairly beamed upon me.

"'Er—just so, just so,' said he, twiddling his thumbs. 'We feel complimented, Mr. Penphist, we really do, that you should have come to us. And it is unfortunate—er—really unfortunate, that we are so utterly lacking in facilities for taking care of accounts of such a character.'

"'You see, Mr. Penphist, our institution is of—er—a sort of special character. It is used as a depository by—well, perhaps I should put it in a clearer manner. I say it to you quite in confidence, you understand, Mr. Penphist, but we have only 1,600 depositors on our books, and these 1,600 depositors' aggregate balances amount all the time to a matter of $110,000,000.'

"Well, that was about enough. I saw the light then. I'd drifted into a millionaires' bank on the careless credentials of a business manager who'd written me that note no doubt in a thoughtless mood.

"The gray haired cashier acted bully about it. He recommended a fine bank to me—'one that combines perfect responsibility with the necessary facilities for handling accounts like—er—yours, Mr. Penphist,' he added.

"For all of the cashier's niceness I walked out of there into the cold gray light of Wall street feeling like a good deal of a human caterpillar.

"I didn't go to the bank recommended to me by the cashier; didn't have the nerve to visit any more banks. I've got $62 left now of the $350, but I'm going to use that as a nest egg, and maybe some day even yet I'll have a bank account."—New York Sun.

A STORY OF HEROISM

Showing How Brave Men Can Calmly Meet Death.

WRECK OF THE BIRKENHEAD.

The Way This British Vessel Went Down Off the Cape of Good Hope. Most of the Crew Were Lost and All the Women and Children Saved.

Visitors to the hospital of the old pensioners at Chelsea will perhaps have noticed in the colonnade a simple memorial tablet, placed there by order of the late Queen Victoria to record the heroic constancy and discipline of the officers and soldiers who lost their lives in the wreck of the transport Birkenhead off the Cape of Good Hope on Feb. 26, 1852. On Jan. 7 in that year, after embarking re-enforcements amounting to fifteen officers and 476 men for the troops engaged in the Kaffir war, the Birkenhead left Ireland for the cape. On board were also 100 women and children, the wives and families of soldiers. All went well till the transport reached Simon's Town, where ten officers and eighteen men were landed. The ship continued her course on the evening of Feb. 25. But the captain in his anxiety for a quick passage unfortunately kept so close to the shore that during the night the ship got among the rocks which line the coast. About three miles off Danger point at 2 o'clock in the morning of the 26th, while all except those on watch were sleeping peacefully in their hammocks, the ship struck with a violent shock. The bulk of the men on board were young soldiers.

The rush of water on the Birkenhead striking was so great that most of the soldiers on the lower troop deck were drowned in their hammocks. The remainder, with all the officers, appeared on deck, many only partly dressed, and fell in as orderly and as quietly as on the barrack square. Calling the officers round him, Lieutenant Colonel Seton of the Seventy-fourth highlanders, the senior officer on board, impressed on them the necessity for preserving order and silence among the men. The services of the next senior, Captain Wright, Ninety-first highlanders, were placed at the disposal of the commander of the ship to carry out whatever orders he might consider essential. Sixty men were put on the chain pumps on the lower after deck and told off in three reliefs. Sixty more were put on to the tackles of the paddle box boats, and the remainder were brought on to the poop to ease the fore part of the ship, as she was rolling heavily. The commander next ordered the officers' chargers to be pitched out of the gangway. The plunging and terrified horses were got up and cast over, five of them managing to swim ashore. The cutter was then got ready for the women and children, who had been collected under the poop awning, and they were passed in one by one. There being room in the boat for one or two more, the order was given for any trumpeter or bugler boys to be taken. A young drummer standing near was told by an officer to get into the boat, but, drawing himself up, exclaimed that he drew man's pay and would stick by his comrades. The cutter then shoved off in charge of one of the ship's officers, and the women and children were safe.

No sooner was she clear than the entire bow of the vessel broke off at the foremast, the bowsprit going up in the air toward the foretopmast. The funnel also went over the side, carrying away the starboard paddle box and boat and crushing the men on the tackles. The paddle box boat capsized on being lowered, and the large boat in the center of the ship could not be got up.

The men were then ordered on to the poop, where they stood calmly awaiting their fate. Within a few minutes the vessel broke in two, crosswise, just abaft the engine room, and the stern began rapidly to fill. In this extremity the commander called out, "Those who can swim jump overboard and make for the boats!" but the officers begged the soldiers not to, as the boat with the women and children would be swamped. They were young men in the prime of life, with all before them, yet no one moved, nor did any sign of terror or fear escape them. Lower and lower sank the vessel into the deadly sea. The old transport shivered, gave a final plunge and disappeared, carrying with her the band of heroes on deck and those working below at the pumps.

Men of all ages and ranks they were—the colonel and the drummer boy, officers of gentle birth and men from the workshop, the plow and the mine, but all animated with the same heroic resolution, fortitude and chivalry—as cool as though they had been on their parade ground, with as much courage as in action in the field. A few managed to cling to the rigging of the mainmast, part of which remained out of water, while others got hold of floating pieces of wood and were eventually rescued, but of fourteen officers and 458 men no fewer than nine officers and 349 men perished, many falling prey to the attacks of the sharks, which surrounded the ship in shoals, waiting for their victims. Every woman and child was saved.

Perhaps the greatest compliment ever paid to the memory of the brave was the order of the king of Prussia for the account of the wreck of the Birkenhead to be read on three successive parades at the head of every regiment in his army, and it was spoken of in every school in Prussia and Germany.—London Globe.

A GHOST STORY.

The Spectral Horseman That Visits Wycollar Hall.

This ghost story is contributed by a correspondent of an English magazine: "Wycollar Hall, near Colne, was long the seat of the Cunliffes of Billington. They were noted persons in their time, but evil days came, and their ancestral estates passed out of their hands. In the days of the commonwealth their loyalty cost them dear, and ultimately they retired to Wycollar with a remnant only of their once extensive property. About 1819 the last of the family passed away, and the hall is now a mass of ruins. Little but the antique fireplace remains entire, and even the room alluded to in the following legend cannot now be identified. Tradition says that once every year a specter horseman visits Wycollar Hall. He is attired in the costume of the early Stuart period, and the trappings of his horse are of a most uncouth description.

"On the evening of his visit the weather is always wild and tempestuous. There is no moon to light the lonely roads, and the residents of the district do not venture out of their cottages. When the wind howls loudest the horseman can be heard dashing up the road at full speed, and, after crossing the narrow bridge, he suddenly stops at the door of the hall. The rider then dismounts and makes his way up the broad oaken stairs into one of the rooms of the house. Dreadful screams, as from a woman, are then heard, which soon subside into groans. The horseman then makes his appearance at the door, at once mounts his steed and gallops off.

"His body can be seen through by those who may chance to be present; his horse appears to be wild with rage, and its nostrils stream with fire. The tradition is that one of the Cunliffes murdered his wife in that room and that the specter horseman is the ghost of the murderer, who is doomed to pay an annual visit to the home of his victim. She is said to have predicted the extinction of the family, which, according to the story, has been literally fulfilled."

Two Rights and a Wrong.

A Camden shoe man sold a pair of shoes recently to a woman and after she had left the store discovered that he had made the mistake of giving the customer two rights instead of a right and left, as is customary. Rushing after the woman, he offered to make the wrong right, but was curtly informed that the customer was satisfied, as she had a wooden leg on the left side anyhow and needed only rights. Now the dealer considers himself flimflammed, because for the price of one pair of shoes he has really supplied the customer with two pairs.—Kennebec Journal.

A little girl in Rhode Island, the daughter of a clergyman, once sat at the table with a bishop who was visiting her father.

When they had finished she observed that he did not fold his napkin. Distressed, she said:

"We always fold our napkins here."

"Yes, my dear," said the bishop. "But that is because your use them again. In the case of a visitor you don't do that."

"Oh, yes, we do," said the little girl.—New York Life.

No, Indeed.
